Stephen J. Presutti is an intellectual property attorney whose practice focuses on patents, trademarks, and intellectual property litigation.

PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

Stephen is knowledgeable in mechanical, electro-mechanical, and electrical technology, and is experienced in IP litigation, patent preparation and prosecution, and the evaluation of invention disclosures for available patent protection.

Stephen has deep experience in advising clients regarding intellectual property protection. His practice includes evaluation of technology for potential patent protection, right to use, or infringement; patent preparation and prosecution; as well as agreements for the assignment, licensing, and management of patent rights. Stephen's practice also covers trademark protection and infringement matters.

A graduate of the University of Akron School of Law, Stephen also holds a Master of Science degree in Mechanical Engineering from the University of Toledo. Prior to law school, Stephen had an extensive engineering career that was primarily related to mechanisms and mechanical structures in medical products, office equipment, and kitchen and bath fixtures. He is also a named inventor on US patent 7,128,236. Stephen is a member of CIPLA (Cleveland Intellectual Property Law Association) and is an exercise enthusiast.
